Potential risks exposures

Causes for event cancellation are numerous and impossible to predict. The bigger your event the higher the loss of your expenses or profit. Event cancellation can protect your important event or even the continuation of your business. Protect your events and your business from risks beyond your control.

Budget or revenue?

You can insure against your event budget and even include the potential profits that you would have made. If your business relies on a single event each year a cancellation can cause a immense threat for the survival of an event company.
